PEARSON, John, D.D., F.R.S., Bp. of Chester.

A very learned and eminent divine. Born at Snoring, Norfolk, 1612. Educated at Eton School, and King's College, Cambridge. Presented to the living of Torrington, Suffolk, 1640. Minister of St. Clement's, Eastcheap, London, 1650. Soon after the Restoration he was presented to the Rectory of St. Christopher's, London, installed Prebendary of Ely, Archdeacon of Surrey, and made Master of Jesus College, Cambridge. Margaret Professor 1661. Master of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1662. Bishop of Chester 1673. Died 1686. He was considered an excellent preacher, and one of the greatest divines of his age. His Exposition of the Creed is one of the most finished pieces of theology in our language; the style being just, the periods well turned, and the method very exact. Numerous editions of it have been published, in 4°, folio, and 8°. The latest edition in which the author made any additions or alterations was the third, 1669, folio. The editions by Dobson, Burton, Nichols, and by Chevallier, have all been well edited.

An exposition of the Creed. Twelfth edition, revised and corrected. Folio. Lond. 1741

Another edition, with an appendix containing the principal Greek and Latin creeds. Revised by the Rev. W. S. Dobson, A.M. 8°. Lond. 1840

Another edition, revised and corrected by the Rev. E. Burton, D.D. Third edition. 2 vol. 8°. Oxf. 1847*

In Dr. Burton's editions the notes are printed separately in vol. 2. In all others they are placed at the bottom of the page.

Another edition, revised and corrected by the Rev. Temple Chevallier, B.D. 8°. Camb. 1849*

An abridgment of the Exposition of the Creed written by Bishop Pearson, more especially designed for the use of the English readers, by Thomas Bishop, D.D. 8°. Lond. 1729

Exposition of the Creed abridged for the use of young persons, by the Rev. C. Burney, LL.D. 12°. Lond. 1810

An analysis of the Exposition of the Creed. See MILL, W. H.

PERKINS, William.

A learned and pious Calvinist divine. Born at Warton, Warwickshire, 1558. Educated in Christ's College, Cambridge. Chosen Fellow 1582, and obtained high reputation as a tutor. On receiving orders, he first preached to the prisoners in Cambridge jail, and was afterwards appointed Preacher of St. Andrew's Church. Died 1602. He excelled in a distinct judgment; a rare dexterity in clearing the obscure subtilties of the schools, and in an easy explication of perplexed subjects. As a preacher, he was greatly admired. Several of his works have been translated into Latin, French, Dutch, and Spanish.

Works, newly corrected according to his own copies. 3 vol. Folio. Lond. 1616

PETAUVIUS, Dionysius [Petau Denis].

A Jesuit, and one of the most distinguished literary men of his time. Born at Orleans 1583. Educated at Paris. Appointed Professor of Philosophy at Bourges in his nineteenth year. Entered the Society of Jesuits at twenty-two. Professor of Theology at Paris 1621, which he filled with great reputation for twenty-two years. Died 1652. His Opus de Theologicis Dogmatibus is full of choice erudition. Muratori regarded the author as the restorer of dogmatic theology. It is to be regretted that he did not complete his design. The best edition is that by Zacharia, 1757. The best of his other great work, De Doctrina Temporum, is the edition of 1705. Petavius edited Synesius, Epiphanius, and other works.

PETER the Venerable, also called MAURITIUS.

Born 1092 or 1094. Abbot of Cluny 1122. Took in the schism of 1130, the side of Pope Innocent XI. Petrus Venerabilis was more or less mixed with all the important ecclesiastical transactions of the twelfth century. He especially played a great part in the discussions between Bernard of Clairvaux and Abelard. His works, written with more ease than talent, have not yet been published in a collected form. PETER of Blois [Petrus Blesensis].

So called from the place of his birth. A learned ecclesiastical writer in the twelfth century. Studied at Paris and Bologna. Invited to England by Henry II., and was nominated Archdeacon of Bath, afterwards became Chancellor of Canterbury and Archdeacon of London. For the space of fourteen years he was one of the most influential men in England, both as a politician and a churchman. Died 1200. He is said to have first used the word transubstantiation. His letters are very interesting; they are admired for their elegance and perspicuity of language.

PLATINA , or DE SACCHI , Bartolomeo.
A celebrated historian. Born at Piadena (in Latin, Platina), 1421. He first embraced a military life, but after some time devoted himself to literature, went to Rome, and was appointed one of the College of Abbreviators, of which he was deprived by Paul II., and punished for complaining. Made Librarian to the Vatican by Sextus IV. Died 1481. His Lives of the Popes are written with an elegance of style, and discover powers of research and discrimination which were then rare. He writes with freedom of the popes. Some passages are omitted in late editions. In the edition of 1574 the passage in the life of St. Anacletus, "Uxorem habuit in Bithynia," is for the first time changed into "Uxorem non habens." Historia de vitis Pontificum periculanda, diligenter recognita et nunc tantum integra impressa. Folio. Venet. 1504

Vol. 3. The œconomy of the restoration of man before the Incarnation of Jesus Christ; wherein are fundamentally demonstrated man's impotence to recover himself, and the necessity of the Mediator's intervention. Wherein also the nature and properties of the grace of God, its obstacles, and the different dispensations of external means given to remove them ever since the fall of Adam to the first coming of Jesus Christ, are fully explained.

Vol. 4. The œconomy of the restoration of man after the incarnation of Christ. Wherein, after some account of our Saviour's first coming, is shewn the nature and establishment of the Christian Church; of its sacraments and ministry; its decay, the rise of schisms; the duty of a good man in that respect; as also that corrupt Christendom shall be destroyed to make way for the renovation of the Church and the glorious appearance of Christ upon the earth.

Vol. 5. The œconomy of the co-operation of man with the operation of God: wherein the essential and most important points of religion and divinity, such as the grace of God, faith, purification, or sanctification, justification, regeneration, and perseverance, are radically and fundamentally explained.

Vol. 6.

The œconomy of universal providence for the salvation of all men. Where is also demonstrated the nullity of the doctrine of modern predestination. With the analysis and short explication of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans.

The principles of real and internal religion asserted and vindicated, or,—

PRINCIPLES and rules of the gospel. See GOTHER.

The principles of the Low-Church-men fairly represented and defended. In the following important articles, viz.: The supremacy of the crown, episcopacy, and Dissenters' baptism. The necessity of absolution. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper being a sacrifice. A comprehension. Toleration and moderation. Bowing towards the altar. The divine appointment of the Lord's day. Passive obedience and hereditary right. Wherein their opinions (and not those of the High-Church-men) are proved to be most agreeable to the doctrines of the Church of England; with some occasional reflections on some of the late writings of Dr. Hicks, Dr. Brett, Mr. Dodwell, &c. QUESNEL, Pasquier.

A celebrated divine. Born at Paris 1634. Studied at the Sorbonne. Member of the Congregation of the Oratory 1657. Received priest's orders two years afterwards. Devoted himself to the study of the Scriptures and of the Fathers, and at the age of twenty-eight was appointed First Director of the Institution belonging to his Order at Paris. He edited the works of St. Leo, 2 vol. 4°. 1675, in which he defended the Gallican Church against the Court of Rome. This edition was condemned by a decree of the Congregation of the Index. Exiled 1681, and joined Arnauld and other Jansenists at Brussels. Died 1719. His work on the New Testament continues to be admired for its fervid piety and solid learning. It gave rise to the famous Bull Unigenitus, in which 101 propositions extracted from it were condemned; in consequence of which a long and important controversy arose on the doctrines of grace, the circulation of the Scriptures among the people, &c. The part on the Four Gospels was republished in English with an introductory essay by Daniel Wilson, the present Bishop of Calcutta, 3 vol. 12°.

RABANUS MAURUS.

Born about 776, at Mentz. Abbot of Fulda 822. Bishop of Mentz 847. This divine was one of the most copious writers of his age. He gained the friendship of Alcuin, and interfered, with some success, in the quarrels between Louis le Débonnaire and his sons. As a prelate, he behaved rather too severely towards Gottschalkus. Died 856.

The edition of Maurus's works, published at Cologne, 1627, 3 vol. folio, is not complete; and it contains some spurious treatises.

RACINE, John.

Born 1639, at La Ferté-Milon, in Champagne. Died 1699. This illustrious poet was as eminent by his virtues and genuine piety as by his talents. He had been brought up at Port-Royal, and the gratitude which he felt for the instructors of his youth made him compose his Abridgement of the history of that monastery. It was very highly valued by Boileau. It is often omitted in the collected works.

Born at Budley, Devonshire, 1552. Educated at Oriel College, Oxford. Served in the army in Ireland. Obtained letters patent 1584 for discovering Virginia. Knighted soon after, and elected Member of Parliament. Active against the Spanish Armada 1588. Condemned for high treason on the accession of King James, and confined in the Tower for twelve years. Released 1616, and headed a Squadron against Guiana. On his return arrested and beheaded, 1618. His History of the World, written in the Tower, and first published 1614, extends to the end of the Macedonian empire. The design was equal to the greatness of his mind, and the execution to the strength of his parts and the variety of his learning; the style is pure, nervous, and majestic. Best edition 1736. His complete works were published at Oxford 1829, in 8 vol. 8°.

RICALTOUN, Robert.

An eminent divine of the Church of Scotland. Minister of Hobkirk. Born 1691. Died 1769. In his writings there is great depth of Christian and metaphysical acuteness, and an original mode of thinking and expression. "He was," says John Newton, "certainly a man of strong, comprehensive mind; and if not an elegant, he was a masterly writer. His metaphysics are, I think, a good becom to sweep away the fine-spun cobweb, sceptical metaphysics, which at present are too common in fashion." His works have become exceedingly scarce.

ROUSSEAU, John James.

Born 1712; died 1778. One of the most remarkable writers of the eighteenth century, and a man whose influence has been almost beyond belief. His views on education, as exhibited in the Emilie, obtained great popularity. At rare intervals he gives evidence that he was capable of appreciating virtue and religion. But, on the whole, Rousseau's talents were of a dangerous description, and he employed his fascinating eloquence in pulling down all moral and political principles.

RUFFINUS, or RUFINUS.

A celebrated ecclesiastical writer and commentator of the fourth century. Devoted himself to the monastic life, and built a monastery on Mount Olivet. Retired ultimately to Aquileia. He was at one time an intimate friend of St. Jerome, but a violent quarrel arose between them; and having refused to go to Rome to vindicate himself against St. Jerome's accusations, he was condemned as a heretic by Anastasius.

SACHEVERELL, Henry, D.D.

A celebrated divine, son of a clergyman at Marlborough. Born about 1672. Became demy of Magdalen College, Oxford, and was chosen Fellow. His first preferment was the living of Cannock, Staffordshire, to which was added the preacherhip of St. Saviour's, Southwark, 1705. His two famous sermons were preached, the one at the Assizes at Derby, 14th August, 1709, the other at St. Paul's, 9th Nov., in both which he vehemently attacked Low Churchmen and Dissenters, and asserted that the Church was in imminent danger: in one he was supposed to allude under the name of Volpone to Lord Godolphin. He was impeached by the House of Commons, and tried before the Lords, found guilty, and suspended for three years. On the expiration of the sentence, 1713, the Queen presented him to the living of St. Andrew's, Holborn. Died 1724. Some excellent Latin poems by him are in the Musæ Anglicanæ, vol. 2 and 3.

SADOLETO, James, Cardinal.

A learned and accomplished scholar. Born at Modena 1477. Studied at Ferrara. Became Secretary to Leo X. Bishop of Carpentras 1517. Cardinal 1536. Died 1547. His unspotted character, the mildness of his manners, his sincere piety, and his love of letters, have caused him to be compared with Fénelon. His commentary on St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans is much esteemed. The first edition, 1535, was suppressed, having been accused of containing semi-Pelagian sentiments on the doctrines of grace.

SAGE, John, M.A.

A bishop in the Episcopal Church of Scotland and a divine of great learning and excellence of character. Born 1652. Educated at the University of St. Andrews, in which he took the degree of M.A. 1672. Ordained 1684, and officiated at Glasgow until the Revolution. Consecrated a bishop 1705. Died 1711. Three volumes of his works have been published by the Spottiswoode Society, Edin. 1844. Containing—Vol. 1. Memoir of Sage by the editor, and The fundamental charter of Presbytery. Vol. 2 and 3. The principles of the Cyprianic age, and Vindication. No other volumes have been published of this edition.

The case of the present afflicted clergy in Scotland truly represented. To which is added for probation, The attestation of many unexceptionable witnesses to every particular; and all the publick acts and proclamations of the Convention and Parliament relating to the Clergy. By a Lover of the Church and his Country. Ff. 3. Pp. 108. 4°. Lond. 1690

An account of the late establishment of Presbyterian Government by the Parliament of Scotland, 1690. Together with the methods by which it was settled, and the consequences of it: As also several publick acts, speeches, pleadings, and other matters of importance relating to the Church in that kingdom. To which is added a summary of the visitation of the universities there; in a fifth Letter from a Gentleman at Edinburgh to his Friend at London. [Anonymous.] Ff. 3. Pp. 100. 4°. Lond. 1693

The fundamental charter of Presbytery, as it hath been lately established in the kingdom of Scotland, examined and disproved by the history, records, and publick transactions of our nation, with a preface wherein the Vindicator of the Kirk [Gilbert Rule] is freely put in mind of his habitual infirmities. [Anonymous.] 8°. Lond. 1695

The principles of the Cyprianic age, with regard to Episcopal power and jurisdiction: asserted and recommended from the genuine writings of St. Cyprian himself, and his contemporaries. By which it is made evident that the Vindicator of the Kirk of Scotland is obliged by his own concessions to acknowledge, that he and his associates are schismatics. In a letter to a Friend. [Anonymous.] F. 1. Pp. 94. 4°. Lond. 1695

Another. Second edition. [Anonymous.] 8°. Lond. 1717

A vindication of a discourse entitled, The Principles of the Cyprianic Age, being a reply to Gilbert Rule's Cyprianic Bishop Examined, and found not to be a Diocesan. [Anon.] 4°. Lond. 1701

Some remarks on the late Letter from a Gentleman in the City, to a Minister in the Country; and Mr. Williamson's sermon preached before the late General Assembly. In a letter, from a person in the Country to his friend in the City. [Anonymous.] Pp. 29. 4°. s. l. 1703

SANDERSON, Robert, D.D., Bp. of Lincoln.

A learned divine, especially in casuistry. Born at Rotherham, Yorkshire, 1587. Studied at Lincoln College, Oxford, where he obtained a Fellowship 1606. Soon after, elected Reader of Logic. Rector of Boothby Pannel, Lincolnshire, 1619. Prebendary of Lincoln 1629. Rector of Muston 1633. Regius Professor of Divinity, Oxford, and Canon of Christ Church 1642. Ejected from the last two appointments 1643. Restored, and consecrated Bishop of Lincoln, 1660. Died 1662-3. He was a man of great piety, modesty, learning, and abilities. He was originally a strict Calvinist, but from this he afterwards greatly relaxed. "Dr. Sanderfon," says Dr. Hammond, "conceives all things deliberately, dwells upon them discreetly, discerns things that differ exactly, passeth his judgment rationally, and expresses it aptly, clearly, and honestly." King Charles I. said, that he "carried his ears to hear other preachers, but his conscience to hear Mr. Sanderfon."

He was a moderate Calvinist. His style is pure, unaffected, and eloquent. His sermons rank between those of Bourdaloue and Massillon. He possessed vast intellectual powers and an imagination which has scarcely been equalled. "Saurin," says Cecil, "felt that he could flourish, lighten, thunder, and enchant like a magician." His discourses, historical, critical, and moral, were originally written to accompany a series of engravings illustrative of the Scriptures, and the whole were published in 6 vol. folio. He did not live to complete the work, but it was ably continued by Messrs. Roques and Beaufofre. It is full of learning, and forms a

SCOTT, Sir Walter, Bart.

One of the greatest writers of fiction both in prose and poetry that has ever appeared. Born at Edinburgh 1771. Educated at the High School of Edinburgh. Apprenticed to a Writer to the Signet 1786. Called to the Bar 1792. Appointed Sheriff of Selkirkshire 1799. One of the Principal Clerks of the Court of Session 1806. Published the Lay of the Last Minstrel 1805. Published Waverley 1814. Having been involved in the failure of his publisher and printer in 1825, he became liable to debts to the amount of 147,000*l.*, the whole of which he undertook to pay in full. This he accomplished to a considerable extent before his death by incessant literary labours, which accelerated his decease in 1832. Eventually the whole amount was relieved and paid from the sale of his works.

SECKER, Thomas, LL.D., Abp. of Canterbury.

An eminent divine. Born at Sibthorp, Nottinghamſhire. Educated for the miniſtry among the Diſſenters at the Academy of Mr. Jones, of Tewksbury, along with Bp.
 Butler. Entered as a Gentleman Commoner, Exeter College, Oxford, 1721. Ordained Deacon 1722. Rector of Houghton-le-Spring 1724. Rector of St. James's, London, 1733. Biſhop of Briſtol 1735. Translated to Oxford 1737. Dean of St. Paul's 1750. Abp. of Canterbury 1758.
 Died 1768. He was one of the moſt popular preachers of his time. "When Secker preaches, or when Murray pleads," Hervey obſerves, "the church is crowded and the bar is thronged." His ſermons are noble ſpecimens of practical preaching to intelligent congregations. When occaſion calls for it, he is pathetic, animated, nervous, riſing to that true ſublime which conſiſts not in pomp of diction, but in grandeur of ſentiment, expreſſed with ſimplicity and ſtrength. Beſt edition of his works, 12 vol. 8°, various years. The whole were reprinted in 6 vol. 8°, Lond.

SENECA, Lucius Annæus.

An eminent Stoic philosopher. Born at Corduba, in Spain, the year before the Christian era. His father, Marcus Annæus Seneca, was a rhetorician, and his extant works are printed with those of the son in several editions. Lucius Annæus Seneca received his education at Rome, and became successively quæstor, prætor, and, some say, consul. He was tutor to Nero, who eventually sent him an order to put himself to death, which he did with equanimity. His works contain such pure morality that some have been led to believe he was a Christian. The tragedies ascribed to him are of doubtful authenticity.

SIBBS, Richard, D.D.

A learned and pious divine. Born at Sudbury, Suffolk, 1577. Educated at St. John's College, Cambridge, where he obtained a Fellowship. On being ordained, he was chosen Lecturer of Trinity Church, Cambridge, the living of which he held during the last two years of his life. Preacher of Gray's Inn 1618, where he obtained great reputation as a preacher. Chosen Master of Catharine Hall, Cambridge, 1625. Died 1635. His works are held in much estimation, particularly his Bruised Reed and Soul's Conflict; to the former of which Richard Baxter says, he owed, in a great measure, his conversion. Izaak Walton wrote the following couplet in a copy of The Returning Backslider:—

“Of this blest man, let this just praise be given, Heaven was in him before he was in heaven.”

No complete edition of Sibbs's works has been published. The collection printed 1812, in 3 vol. 8°, contains only a small portion. It is incorrectly printed, and omits the prefaces, dedications, and tables.

SIBYLLINE Oracles.

Greek verses, in eight books, prophesying of the coming of Christ and the establishment of Christianity, and professing to be the remains of the ten heathen Sibyls, but now generally considered to be spurious, and to have been written between A.D. 138 and 167. A great many books have been written for and against their genuineness, of which an analysis, with a detailed notice of the eight books, is given by Fabricius, in his Bibl. Gr., vol. 1. The first edition was printed 1545, and the work has often been reprinted, with commentaries.

SIXTUS V., Pope [Felice Peretti].

Son of a vine-dresser. Born 1521. Educated among the Franciscan Friars. Received priest's orders 1545, and became a popular preacher. Inquisitor-General at Venice 1555, where he gave great offence by his severity. Afterwards made General of his Order. Raised to the purple 1570. Elected Pope 1585. Died 1590. He caused the Vulgate edition of the Bible to be revised, and, to the alarm of bigoted Catholics, an Italian version to be printed. (The life of), in which we have also, by pleasant

SIXTUS Senensis.

Born 1520, of Jewish parents. Early in life he embraced the Christian religion, and entered the Order of St. Francis. From the age of twenty to thirty he preached in the principal towns of Italy with much reputation, but fell into some Judaizing errors, for which he was imprisoned in the Inquisition at Rome and condemned to death. Having renounced those opinions, he was restored, and was admitted into the Order of Dominicans, and again became famous as a preacher. Died 1569. His Bibliotheca Sancta is a work of much erudition and good sense, and the best of the kind that had then appeared. An edition with additions by Milante was published at Naples, 2 vol. folio, 1742. Sixtus Senensis composed numerous works which were never published. He destroyed all his MSS. in his last illness.

SMECTYMNUS.

The pseudonyme of a celebrated tract, in answer to Bp. Hall. The word is made up of the initial letters of the names of the authors, who were Stephen Marſhall, Edmund Calamy, Thomas Young, Matthew Newcomen, and William Spurlowe. It is written with great fierceneſs of ſpirit and aſperity of language, yet in a ſtyle ſuperior to that of the Puritans in general; and it was a production of no ſmall importance in its day. Bp. Hall answered it in his Defence of the Humble Remonſtrance, 1641; to which Smectymnus replied, in A Vindication of the Anſwer, 1641. Bp. Hall rejoined in A Short Anſwer to the Tedious Vindication of Smectymnus, 1641. Milton wrote An Apology for Smectymnus.

An answer to a booke entitled, An Humble Remonſtrance. In which the originall of liturgy and epiſcopacy is diſcuſſed. And queries propounded concerning both. The parity of biſhops and preſbyters in Scripture demonſtrated. The occaſion of their imparity in antiquity diſcovered. The diſparity of the ancient and our moderne biſhops manifeſted. The antiquity of ruling elders in the Church vindicated. The prelatiſh Church bounded.

SOCIETY for Promoting Christian Knowledge.

The chief designs of this Society are, I. Aid to national and charity schools, and towards the education of the poor in the doctrines and duties of Christianity as taught by the Church of England; this being done by the cheap and gratuitous supply of books on the Society's Catalogues. II. The gratuitous supply and cheap distribution of the Holy Scriptures, the Book of Common Prayer, the Homilies of the Church, and religious books and tracts, among various classes of persons in this kingdom, especially soldiers, sailors, and prisoners. III. Assistance to the Church in the colonies and dependencies of the British empire, by money grants towards churches, and by supplies of books and tracts. IV. Translations of the Scriptures and the Book of Common Prayer into foreign languages.

SOCRATES.

The most celebrated of the ancient philosophers. Born in Attica, B.C. 469. His father was a statuary and sculptor, and Socrates carried on the business for some time after his death; but employed his leisure hours in the study of philosophy. Afterwards taught philosophy, and for some time served his country in the field. Having been falsely accused as a contemner of the gods, he was put to death by the Athenians, B.C. 396. His opinions are described by Xenophon and Plato.

SPENCER, John, D.D. (continued).

The chief purpose of Spencer in his learned work, De Legibus Hebræorum, is to prove in detail that the rites and ceremonies of the Jewish religion were instituted in direct opposition to the practices of the surrounding idolatrous nations, and in order to establish the strongest distinction between the Jews and them. Yet it has been affirmed by Orme and others that the object of the work is to show that the Hebrew Ritual was almost entirely borrowed from the Egyptians and accommodated to the tastes and prejudices which the Jews had acquired among that people. Witfius in his Ægyptiaca writes in opposition to Spencer.

STILLINGFLEET, Edward, D.D.

An eminently learned prelate. Born at Cranbourne, Dorsetshire, 1635. Educated at St. John's College, Cambridge, of which he became Fellow 1653. Presented to the living of Sutton, Bedfordshire, 1657, having received orders from Dr. Brownrigg, the deprived bishop. Became Preacher at the Rolls, Rector of St. Andrew, Holborn, and Prebendary of St. Paul's, London. Archdeacon of London 1677. Dean of St. Paul's 1678. Bishop of Worcester 1689. Died in Westminster 1699. His apprehension was quick and sagacious, his judgment exact and profound, his memory very tenacious; he studied intensely and read so extensively, that he was considered one of the most universal scholars that ever lived. His collected works, in 6 vol. folio, form one of the scarcest publications in English divinity.

TALMUD.

The word Talmud, which means study, namely, of subjects appertaining to the religious traditions of the Jews, was given to the vast collections of Jewish patristic writings which contain the theological and judicial problems and decisions, together with the exegetical discussions, moral maxims and aphorisms, narratives of an historical, mythical, and allegorical character, and the miscellaneous opinions and sayings of the Rabbins. The Talmud consists of two parts,—namely, of the body of Rabbinical theology entitled Mishnah (which see), and of the Genara (which in meaning is synonymous with the term Talmud). The several paragraphs of the Mishnah form texts to which are appended the more lengthy comments of the Gemara. The latter is essentially the exposition and criticism, the amplification or limitation of such Mishnaical texts. The Gemara is composed in the Aramaic dialect, and interperfed with many Hebrew fragments, which in regard to style agree with the language of the Mishnah. There are two distinct Talmuds. The one, which contains the relics of the transactions of Jewish academies in Palestine, is called the Jerusalem Talmud, and was completed in the latter part of the fourth century; the other compilation, called the Babylonian Talmud, is four times larger than the Talmud of Jerusalem. It contains the Gemara, or comments to thirty-six out of the sixty-three Mishnaical treatises, and occupies 2947 folio pages in the printed editions, all editions being paged alike to facilitate reference. This Talmud was completed in Sura, after the expiration of the fifth century. The most celebrated commentary on the Babylonian Talmud was written by Raschi (See JARCHI). There exist many digests of the Talmud; the one best known, and which relates to the practical religious system of the Rabbins, was executed by Maimonides in his large work entitled Iad Chazakah. (See MAIMONIDES.) Editions of the Jerusalem Talmud, which now are scarce and never have been published in a complete form, appeared at Venice (printed by Bomberg), Cracow, Amsterdam, Vienna, &c. Of the Babylonian Talmud have been published numerous editions; the first, by Daniel Bomberg, in Venice, was commenced in 1520. Most editions are in 12 vol. folio; but there are some in convenient 8°, the last of which appeared at Prague, 1839-46, in 24 vol. Small portions of the Talmud have been translated into Latin and various other languages.

TARGUM.

Targum, or interpretation, is the general name of the translations and paraphrases of the Old Testament, written in the Aramaic dialects of Palestine and Babylonia. These versions differ very much in style and in the mode of introducing a variety of Jewish traditions and doctrinal matter. The Targum to the Pentateuch has come down to us in various forms. The most ancient is that attributed to Onkelos (which see); the other, which ought to be termed Jerusalem Targum, is falsely ascribed to Jonathan Ben Uzziel (which see), for it contains allusions to subjects and events which originated many centuries after the life of that interpreter of the Hebrew Scriptures, who is said to have been a contemporary of Christ. There are portions apparently of a third version of the Pentateuch, which in the printed copies bear the name Jerusalem Targum. It has, however, been found that this version contains simply emendations and different readings of the one attributed to Jonathan Ben Uzziel. The right designation of both these versions therefore is Jerusalem Targum. The Targums to nearly all the Scriptures are printed in the Polyglots and in the Rabbinical Bibles of Buxtorf and others. Two Targums to the Book of Chronicles by different authors were edited with Latin versions by Beck and Wilkins.

TAYLOR, Jeremy, D.D., Bishop of Down, Connor, and Dromore.

A divine of distinguished eloquence and learning. Born at Cambridge 1613, where his father was a barber. Entered a Sizar of Caius College, Cambridge, 1626. Obtained a Fellowship. Became Chaplain to Abp. Laud and to the King. Fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford, 1636. Rector of Uppingham, Rutlandshire, 1638. Sequestered by the Parliament 1642. Retired into Wales 1645, and kept a school. Bishop of Down and Connor 1660. To which was added Dromore, 1661. Died at Lisburn 1667. "He had," says Dr. Ruft, "the good humour of a gentleman, the eloquence of an orator, the fancy of a poet, the acuteness of a schoolman, the profoundness of a philosopher, the wisdom of a chancellor, the sagacity of a prophet, the reason of an angel, and the piety of a saint." His works were first collected in 1822, with life by Ep. Heber, 15 vol. 8°, of which a third edition was published in 1839: a new edition, edited by the Rev. C. P. Eden, in 10 vol. 8°, is nearly finished. There is also an edition in 4 vol. imp. 8°.

Whole works, with a life of the author, and a critical examination of his writings by the Right Rev. Reginald Heber, D.D., Lord Bishop of Calcutta. Third edition. 15 vol. 8°. Lond. 1839

TERTULLIAN, Quintus Septimus Florus.

A celebrated Christian writer of the second century, and the earliest of the Latin Fathers. Born at Carthage. During the persecution in the time of Severus he published an eloquent apology for the Christians. Joined the Montanists towards the close of his life. His style is concise, emphatical, and figurative, but harsh, unpolished, hyperbolic, and obscure. The edition of his works, 1695, described below, is one of the best.

Opera, ad vetustissimum exemplarium fidem sedulo emendata; diligentia Nic. Rigaltii J. C. cum ejusdem annotationibus integris, et variorum commentariis, seorsim antea editis P. Prioribus argumenta et notas in libros omnes de novo adjecit, et dissertationem apprime utilem concinnavit. Accedunt Novatiani tractatus de Trinitate et cibis Judaicis, cum notis Pamelii. Folio. A commentary, or exposition upon the books of the Old Testament. 4 vol. Folio.

A commentary, or exposition upon all the books of the New Testament. Wherein the text is explained, some controversies are discussed, divers common places are handled, &c. The whole intermixed with pertinent histories. Second edition, very much enlarged throughout. Folio. Lond. 1656

One of the scarcest of English commentaries, when complete, on the Old and New Testament, 5 vol. folio; the volume on the Pentateuch is the most rare. The work contains many useful remarks, with much quaint wit and illustrative anecdotes.

A commentary; or, exposition upon all the Epistles, and the Revelation of John the divine. 4°. Lond. 1649

God's love-tokens; and the afflicted man's lessons brought to light and laid before him in two fruitful and seasonable discourses upon Rev. 3. 19, comforting under, and directing unto a right use of our personal and public crosses and calamities. 12°. Lond. 1637

TRAPP, Joseph, D.D.

Grandson of the preceding. Born at Cherrington, Gloucestershire, 1679. Educated at Wadham College, Oxford, of which he was chosen Fellow 1704. Appointed the first Professor of Poetry 1708. Rector of Dauntzey, Wiltshire, 1720. Vicar of Christ Church, Newgate Street, London, 1721. Rector of Harlington, Middlesex, 1733. Elected one of the joint Lecturers of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields 1734. Died 1747.

A preservative against unsettled notions and want of principles in religion. In several discourses upon select subjects. Second edition. 2 vol. Sm. 8°. Lond. 1722

VOLTAIRE, François Marie Arouet, de.

Born at Paris 1694. Educated in the College of Louis le Grand. He was intended for the law, but declined that profession and devoted himself to literature. Appointed Gentleman of the Bed-Chamber and Historiographer of France, 1743. Admitted into the Academy of Sciences 1746. Went to Berlin 1750, and was appointed one of the Chamberlains of the King of Prussia. Removed to Geneva, and afterwards to Ferney, in Le Pays de Gex. Visited Paris 1778, where he was overwhelmed with honours, but died in the same year. He was the greatest literary character that France produced in the last century, but he had no fixed principles. He was a Freethinker at London, a Cartesian at Versailles, a Christian at Nancy, and an infidel at Berlin. His works were published in English in 36 vol. 12°.

The Crescent and the Cross; or, romance and realities of Eastern travel. Seventh edition. 2 vol. Large 12^o. Lond. 1848

WARBURTON, William, D.D., Bishop of Gloucester.

A very eminent divine. Born at Newark-upon-Trent 1698. Articled to an attorney 1715, and commenced practice at Newark, but a passion for reading led him to relinquish his profession, and he received deacon's orders 1723. Vicar of Gryely 1726. Rector of Burnt on Brant, Broughton, Lincolnshire, 1728. Preacher to Lincoln's Inn 1746. Prebendary of Gloucester 1753. Dean of Bristol 1757. Bishop of Gloucester 1759. Died at Gloucester 1779. "He was," says Dr. Johnson, "a man of vigorous faculties, a mind fervid and vehement, supplied by incessant and unlimited enquiry, with wonderful extent and variety of knowledge, which yet had not oppressed his imagination. To every work he brought a memory full fraught, together with a fancy fertile of original combinations, and at once exerted the powers of the scholar, the reasoner, and the wit." The best old edition of the Divine Legation is as follows: Vol. 1 and 2, containing books 1, 2, and 3, fifth edition, corrected and enlarged, 1766. Vol. 3, 4, 5, containing books 4, 5, 6, fourth edition, corrected and enlarged, 1765. Vol. 6. A supplemental volume, containing book 9, Three sermons, Directions for the study of theology, and Remarks on Neal, 1768. The seventh and eighth books have never been published. A tenth edition, in 3 vol. 8^o, was published in 1846, edited by James Nichols. An able view of the Warburtonian controversy will be found in Quart. Rev. 2. 401.

WARBURTONIAN LECTURE.
Founded by Bp. Warburton, by will, dated 1768, to prove the truth of revealed religion in general, and of the Chriſtian in particular, from the completion of the prophecies in the Old and New Teſtament, which relate to the Chriſtian Church, eſpecially to the apoſtacy of Papal Rome. The Lecture to be preached every year, on the firſt Sunday after Michaelmas Term, the Sunday before and the Sunday after Hilary Term, in the chapel of Lincoln's Inn, each lecturer not to continue longer than four years. For further contents ſee under each author.

WATTS, Isaac, D.D.

A celebrated Dissenting divine. Born at Southampton 1674. Studied at an academy kept by the Rev. Thomas Rowe, London. Tutor to the son of Sir John Hartopp, at Stoke-Newton, 1696. One of the Ministers of the Independent congregation in Mark Lane, London, 1698. From which charge he retired 1712, in consequence of a severe illness, and became an inmate of the house of Sir Thomas Abney, at Theobalds, for thirty-six years. Died 1748. He was a man of great excellence of character. "Few men," says Dr. Johnson, "have left such monuments of laborious piety. He has provided instruction for all ages, from those who are lisping their first lessons to the enlightened readers of Malebranche and Locke."

WITHERSPOON, John, D.D.

Born at Yester, near Edinburgh, 1722. Educated at the University of Edinburgh. Became Minister of the parish of Beith, and afterwards Minister at Paisley. Appointed President of Princeton College, New Jersey, 1768. Died 1794. His works are very superior in style and manner; they are found, sensible, perspicuous, argumentative, and often eloquent. His ecclesiastical characteristics are noticed by Bp. Warburton with approbation: they contain a humorous satire against the moderate party in the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

WITSIUS, Herman.

A very learned and eminent Calvinistic divine. Born at Enkhuyfen, in Holland, 1636. Became Professor of Divinity successively at Franeker, at Utrecht, and at Leyden, where he died 1708. Hervey speaks in high terms of approbation of his Economy of the Covenants. "All his works," says that divine, "have such a delicacy of composition, and such a sweet favour of holiness, that I know not any comparison more proper to represent their true character than the golden pot which had manna, and was outwardly bright with burnished gold, inwardly rich with heavenly food."

WOMAN'S Mission. Sm. 8°. Lond. 1839

Woman not inferior to man; or, a short and modest vindication of the natural right of the fair-sex to a perfect equality of power, dignity, and esteem, with the men. By Sophia, a person of quality. Pp. 62. 8°.

Lond. 1739

Man superior to woman; or, a vindication of man's natural right of sovereign authority over the woman, containing a plain confutation of the fallacious arguments of Sophia, in her late treatise, intitled, Woman not inferior to Man. Interperfed with a variety of characters, of different kinds of women, drawn from life. To which is prefixed, a dedication to the ladies. By a Gentleman. Pp. viii. 74. 8°. Lond. 1739

Another edition. Pp. xvi. 66. 8°. Lond. 1744

Woman's superior excellence over man; or, a reply to the author of a late treatise, entitled, Man Superior to Woman. In which the excessive weakness of that gentleman's answer to Woman not inferior to Man is exposed; with a plain demonstration of woman's natural right even to superiority over the men in head and heart; proving their minds as much more beautiful than the men's as their bodies are, and that, had they the same advantages of education they would excel them as much in sense as they do in virtue. The whole interperfed with a variety of mannish characters which some of the most noted heroes of the present age had the goodness to fit for. By Sophia, a person of quality. Pp. 111. 8°. Lond. 1740

WOMOCK, Lawrence, D.D., Bp. of St. David's.

The examination of Tilenus before the triers, in order to his intended settlement in the office of a publick preacher in the commonwealth of Utopia, whereunto are added the tenets of the Remonstrants, with an essay on the theses of Mr. Thomas Parker. [Anon.] 12°. Lond. 1658

Also, in Cambridge Tracts, 247.

Arcana dogmatum anti-Remonstrantium; or, the Calvinist's cabinet unlocked, in an apology for Tilenus against a pretended vindication of the Synod of Dort, at the provocation of Master R. Baxter, with a few soft drops let fall upon the papers of Master Hickman. [Anon.] 12°. Lond. 1659

The result of false principles; or, error convicted by its own evidence, managed in several dialogues. By the author of the Examination of Tylenus before the Tryers. Whereunto is added a learned disputation of Dr. Goade's sent by King James to the Synod of Dort. 4°. Lond. 1661

Against Calvinism.

The result of false principles; or, error convicted by its own evidence, extracted from the original. 8°. Lond. 1790

WOOLSTON, Thomas.

- A noted heterodox writer. Born at Northampton 1669. Educated at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, of which he was elected Fellow, and where he continued in constant residence until 1720, when he went to London. Sentenced to a year's imprisonment, and a fine of a hundred pounds for writing his Discourses on the Miracles. Died 1733. Having been an assiduous reader of Origen's work, he imbibed a fondness for allegorical interpretations of Scripture. This, acting on a temper naturally enthusiastic, seems to have been the cause of all his aberrations.

Dissertatio de Pontii Pilati ad Tiberium epistola circa res Jesu Christi gestas. Per Mystagogum. Pp. v. 36. 8°. Lond. 1720

A letter to the Rev. Dr. Bennet, Rector of St. Giles, Cripplegate, upon this question: Whether the people called Quakers, do not the nearest, of any other sect in religion, resemble the Primitive Christians in principles and practice? By Aristobulus. Pp. 63. 8°. Lond. 1720

A second letter to the Rev. Dr. Bennet, in defence of the apostles and primitive Fathers of the Church, for their allegorical interpretation of the law of Moses, against the ministers of the letter, and literal commentators of this age. By Aristobulus. Pp. 58. 8°. Lond. 1721

A free gift to the clergy; or, the hiring priests of what denomination soever, challenged to a disputation on this question: Whether the hiring preachers of this age, who are all ministers of the letter, be not worshippers of the Apocalyptic beast, and ministers of Anti-Christ. Four parts. 8°. Lond. 1722-24

The exact fitness of the time, in which Christ was manifested in the flesh, demonstrated by reason, against the objections of the old Gentiles and of modern unbelievers. Pp. ix. 104. 8°. Lond. 1722

The moderator between an infidel and an apostate; or, the controversy between the author of the Grounds and Reasons of the Christian religion and his reverend ecclesiastical opponents set in a clear light. 8°. Lond. 1725

A supplement to the Moderator between an Infidel and an Apostate. Being a dissertation on Daniel's weeks, from the authority of the Fathers. 8°. Lond. 1725

The ministry of the letter vindicated from the charge of Anti-Christianism; or, an answer to Mr. Woolston's Four Free Gifts to the Clergy, &c. By a country curate. Pp. 72. 8°. Lond. 1724

For God or the devil; or, just chastisement no perfection. Being the Christian's cry to the legislature for exemplary punishment of public and pernicious blasphemers: particularly that wretch Woolston, who has impudently and scurrilously turned the miracles of our blessed Saviour into ridicule. Pp. 27. 8°. Lond. 1728

Tom of Bedlam's short letter to his cozen Tom W—lft—n, occasioned by his late Discourses on the Miracles of our Saviour. Pp. 40. 8°. Lond. 1728

A letter to Mr. Woolston, occasioned by his late Defence of his Discourse, in answer to the Bishops of St. David's and London, &c. From a deacon of the Church of England. Pp. 30. 8°. Lond. 1729

An impartial examination and full confutation of the argument brought by Mr. Woolston's pretended rabbi, against the truth of our Saviour's resurrection, viz. That he appeared only to his disciples, after he had risen, and not publickly to the chief priests and the people of Jerusalem. Second edition. Pp. 23. 8°. Lond. 1730

ZOLLIKOFFER, George Joachim.

An eminent divine. Born at St. Gall, in Switzerland, 1730. Studied at the University of Utrecht. Became a preacher successively at Murten in the Pays Vaud, at Monstein, in the Grisons, and at Isenburg. Appointed at the age of twenty-eight preacher to the Reformed Church at Leipzig, which became crowded with the chief people of the city. Died 1788. The aim of his sermons is to explain the nature and grounds of Christian morality and reconcile it with the best dictates of philosophy, and to reveal man to himself. They have been translated with great purity and elegance.

Sermons on the dignity of man and the value of the principal objects of human happiness, from the German, by Rev. William Tooke, F.R.S. Second edition, corrected and improved. 2 vol. 8°. Lond. 1807

ZOROASTER.

A name involved in considerable obscurity, as there appears to have been several Zoroasters. One, a Chaldean, who flourished at the beginning of the Babylonish empire, and to whom the Oracles are ascribed. Another was founder of the religion of the Parsees. Born at Urmia, in Azerbaijan, about B.C. 589. He passed twenty years in study in the deep caves of the mountain Eilbrooz. Died B.C. 513. Zend-Avesta, ouvrage de Zoroastre contenant les idées théologiques, physiques, et morales de ce législateur, les cérémonies du culte religieux qu'il a établi, et plusieurs traits importants relatifs à l'ancienne histoire des Perses. Traduit par M. Anquetil Du Perron. 2 vol. in 3. 4^o. Par. 1771

Vol. 1. Première partie.

Introduction. Formée principalement de la relation du voyage du traducteur aux Indes Orientales, suivie du plan de l'ouvrage; et un appendix sur les monnoyes et poids de l'Inde, &c.

ZUINGLIUS, or ZWINGLI, Ulrichus.

An able and zealous Swiss reformer. Born 1487. Studied at Vienna and Basle. Began to preach 1506, and was chosen Minister of Glaris. Invited to the principal charge in Zurich 1516, and began to censure the corruptions of the Church. Approved by the Senate of Zurich 1523. A civil war having ensued between the five Catholic cantons and those of Zurich and Bern; the latter were defeated, and Zuinglius, who had accompanied them, was slain 1531.

Opera, partim quidem ab ipso Latine conscripta, partim verò e vernaculo sermone in Latinam translata; omnia novissime recognita, et multis adjectis, quæ hæctenus visa non sunt. 4 vol. Folio. sine l. aut a.

days, devoted themselves to the cultivation of the German literature in all its branches. Among his writings which more particularly attracted the attention of the philosophical world, may be reckoned his essay On the Evidence of Metaphysical Sciences (crowned by the Academy of Berlin in 1763), his Phædon, and his Jerusalem. The latter two works were translated into English. His German version of the Five Books of Moses, to a portion of which he also wrote a Hebrew commentary, and his elegant metrical version of the Psalms, have been frequently reprinted in all parts of Germany. A careful collection of his works (exclusive, however, of those written by him in Hebrew) was edited by G. B. Mendelssohn, in 7 vols., Leipzig, 1843-45.
